NEWSLETTER OF THE EVANSVILLE BICYCLE CLUB, EVANSVILLE, INDIANA

"The bicycle has a soul. If you succeed to love it, it will give you emotions that you will never forget." —Mario Cipollini

Paul Jensen The President's Corner

Who needs April in Paris when you have March in Evansville? The weather has been more than cooperative and many of us who consider ourselves snow bird cyclists have taken advantage of this wonderful weather. So how many of us think this weather this month is going to come back and bite us later? Sort of like when is the other shoe going to drop?

Not only are we coming into the cycling season, our volunteer efforts are increasing as well. On April 7 the first rodeo of the year will take place at the Newburgh Wal-Mart the day before Easter—April 7 from 9:00 a.m. till 11:00 a.m. We will have some assistance from Wal-Mart employees plus the Boonville Bicycle Club. Our club will need two or three to help set up the course on Friday evening (weather permitting) or early Saturday morning (probably 6:30 a.m.) We should count on eight to ten EBC volunteers to show up at 8:30 a.m. till receive station assignments and instructions. We will be showing the safety video to each group before they ride.

On Saturday April 21 a new show in town, actually a new community ride will be presented and will be held @ Sunset Park: The Rockin River City ride. Rides ranging from 5K-100k are being offered with staggered start times. Please refer to the website www.rockinrivercityride.org for registration and further information. When you register make sure you register on the EBC ride sheet. By being a member of EBC you receive a $10.00 discount from the regular registration rate ($25.00) versus the $35.00 as an individual. EBC will also have a booth to encourage new members to join. We would like to have two persons attending our booth table. It will be possible to work in one hour or two hour shifts from 8:00 a.m. through till noon. Please contact Paul (me) if you would like to assist. AND REMEMBER AS WAS TRUE LAST YEAR, YOU RECEIVE MILEAGE FOR YOUR VOLUNTEER EFFORTS!

Cycling legend Dan Henry to be buried Friday and why we should care!!

Dan Henry died March 7, just four days before his 99th birthday and two days before the arrival of thousands of amateur cyclists for this year's Solvang Century ride. He was born March 11, 1913, in Derry, Pa., near Pittsburgh. He will be buried next to his wife Trudy, who died in 2007 at the age of 76.

The painted pavement markings indicating routes for various rides was his creation. They are now called "The Dan Henry Marking System," adopted by the League of American Bicyclists and many local cycling clubs including the Evansville Bicycle Club.

An early advocate for biking facilities in Santa Barbara County, Dan Henry's enthusiasm for the sport and impact on the local cycling community is reflected in the bike route on Alamo Pintado

Basic Road Bike Skills You Should Know

By Michelle Valenti

You've done it: You spent the money, bought a bike, and you are going to ride it every day — well, at least every weekend. But the bike you have now is a far cry from the Huffy you rode as a kid, and the local rides are a little different from when you pumped your legs as fast as they could carry you to the local 7-Eleven for a slushie.

How hard can it be? They don't say, "It's just like riding a bike", for nothing, and you're pretty sure you can still balance on two wheels. But how well can you keep up with the local cycling club?

These basic cycling skills will help you feel more comfortable on your new ride.

Climbing

It's easy to keep up with a group on the straightaways, especially if you ride in the middle of the pack and draft off of the more experienced riders. The hills are what separate the seasoned cyclists from the newbies. Ascending a long steady climb without dropping to the back of the pack — or worse — off the back of the pack — takes endurance and skill.

Practice these tips on your next climb.

1. Keep your eyes on the road ahead. As you approach a climb, shift down a couple of gears.

2. Try to keep your cadence (the rate at which you are pedaling) high.
3. Remain seated for as long as possible.
4. Make complete circles when you pedal — pulling up on the back part of the stroke in addition to pushing down on the front side.
5. Put your arms on the top of your handlebars, keep your elbows relaxed (not completely straight), and use your core muscles to help power your pedal strokes.

Descending

You've crested the hill, so it's time to sit back and enjoy the ride, right? Wrong. Going down should be just as methodical and controlled as going up. Although descending is rewarding and fun, it requires just as much, if not more, attention to the road as the climb.

Here are the basics of descending safely:

1. As you crest the climb, shift into a higher gear so that when you need to pedal you'll be ready.
2. Set yourself up for optimal control of the bike: Put your hands in the hoods with your finger resting over and Grand Avenue in Los Olivos being named after him.

Besides his local exploits, he participated in and led cycling tours throughout the United States and Europe with the International Bicycle Touring Society. the brakes. If you're comfortable, you can move your hands into the drops to reduce drag. Shift your butt back a little in the seat and, when you aren't pedaling, keep your feet parallel to one another.

3. Focus your eyes about 15 feet ahead of you to watch for turns or obstructions in the road.

Looking over your shoulder

On any bike ride you should be alert and aware of what's happening around you — not only watching for what's coming up ahead, but for what's approaching from behind. Always check over your shoulder first if you plan to make even the slightest adjustment from your course. Sometimes, however, the simple act of looking over your shoulder can cause you to veer off course.

Follow these tips to get around an obstacle safely:

1. When you see an obstacle ahead — whether it's a parked car or another cyclist you want to pass — prepare to look over your shoulder.
2. Turn your head 90 degrees and let your eyes look the rest of the way.
3. Keep your shoulders and chest facing forward; don't let your arms follow your gaze.
4. Check for approaching cars or riders coming from behind before executing the pass.

Cornering

The reason looking over your shoulder can cause you to swerve is because, in cycling, you steer with your eyes. Where you look (usually) dictates where you want the bike to go.

Follow these tips for successful turns:

1. Look into the turn.
2. Position your inside pedal at the top of the pedal stroke.
3. Lean into the turn. You won't have to turn your handlebars. If you look and lean, the bike will follow.
4. If you need to slow your speed, apply the brakes before you start the turn. Don't brake in the middle of your turn.
5. Start pedaling again as you come out of the corner, to maintain your speed.

The more you practice, the more comfortable you'll be. Spend some time working on these bike skills in a parking lot or on a quiet neighborhood street before heading out with a big group.
