RENEWAL

Gary and Judy Breivogel

As I sit down to write this missive my thoughts are elsewhere, I am thinking that a lawsuit should be considered against the lying rodent, Punxsutawney Phil, with the death penalty on the table. My bike is gathering dust and there has not been a day when my minimal expectations met with time available. Looking up last year's 1st ride found me on the road in February—twice! This weather is unacceptable.

Volunteer—what does that mean? In our case (EBC) it has little to do with the University of Tennessee, but is quite vital in an organization like the Evansville Bicycle Club. We depend on volunteers to assist in many of our rides and events. You, as a member, pay a small fee to be a member of this club and take advantage of the benefits for which you have paid. But remember, a volunteer makes up your monthly schedule and keeps you an informed as to where and when an event will be held, marks the John Henrys on the route you ride, tallies your mileage, prints your newsletter, keeps our website up to date, and plans special events for your enjoyment.

Definition: Volunteering is generally considered an altruistic activity and is intended to promote good or improve human quality of life. In return, this activity produces a feeling of self-worth and respect; however, there is no financial gain. Volunteering is also renowned for skill development, socialization, and fun.

And April finds us with our first volunteer effort of the year which will be a rodeo on Saturday, April 6th at Chick-Fil-A on the East side from 9-11 am. We will need 10 volunteers to make it a success. Please arrive by 8:30 am

EBC rodeos are mainly aimed at children so they can become aware of and practice safe cycling techniques. However, we find that at most rodeos the parents pay attention, learn and reinforce the information presented and skills learned.

Depending on the venue, a rodeo can consist of one or more of the following:

- Helmet fitting—When teaming with organizations that sponsor helmets, EBC members will fit the helmets properly for each child.
- Safety Video—An eight minute video with child cyclists acting the parts that promotes safety practices.
- Safety course—A mini-street course that includes opportunities to practice skills and information learned from either the video or live presentation by an EBC member. This course includes stop signs, yield signs, cross streets, turns and obstacles a rider would typically encounter riding on the street.
- Skills course—This set up is a test that challenges the riding skills of the individual. These include riding a straight line, riding in a circle and weaving using left and right leans.

So, won't you devote a couple of hours every so often to be of assistance? No experience is required and you will be providing a service that can last a lifetime. If you can't make it on the 6th, there are a couple more opportunities in available in April that are highlighted in other parts of this edition of Bikewriter. Hope to see you on the road or at one of our volunteer events.

Cheers,

Paul

JANE BUCHTA AND DARLENE WEFEL

JUNE 1ST - JUNE 8
2013

Jane and Darlene are organizing the ride departing on June 1 driving down to Natchez, Mississippi and beginning the ride back to Nashville on Sunday.

Mileage depends upon logistics of hotel accommodations. It is possible that we will have to take sag vehicles to a town that is quite a ways off the trace. Planning is underway and may depend on number of riders.

Contact Jane 812-453-1333 or Darlene 812-568-9828 for more information or to sign up for the ride.

THE 14TH ANNUAL BIKE SUMMIT THE LEAGUE OF AMERICAN BICYCLISTS MARCH 4TH - MARCH 7TH 2013

On Sunday March 3rd I was one of 750 cycling advocates to go to the National Bike Summit in Washington D.C. This was my first visit to our capital and I'm positive it won't be my last. I arrived early enough to do some sightseeing and one of the first things I noticed was bike lanes everywhere. Despite the cold and breezy conditions I saw people commuting, riding "Bike Share" bikes with special parking places for them.

Ladies in skirts and people in business attire riding bikes to and from work. Wow, we all seem to think of cycling in the sporting sense of the word, but these people rely on it for transportation on a daily basis. This puts a different spin on what I think of when the subject of cycling comes to mind.

Monday morning kicked off with keynote speaker Georgena Terry who pioneered the industry for women specific bikes in 1980 starting in her garage and built it into a international business. She was inspiring. Then Natalie Ramsland founder/frame builder for Sweetpea Bicycles joined in a panel discussion moderated by Karen Brooks, editor of Bicycle times.

I went to a breakout session on Community-Based Bicycle Advocacy: Building the movement from the ground up.

Another on Sparking Changes: Big ideas and bold steps how to get girls involved and it all started with a education grant. It was a compelling story with a twist of using old bicycle parts to make jewelry, to repairing bikes, to riding bikes. The icing on the cake was the afternoon keynote speaker Representative Tammy Duckworth from IL. The first Asian-American woman elected to Congress in IL, the first disabled women to be elected to U.S. House of Representatives. She lost both legs and damaged her right arm when the helicopter she was piloting was shot down in the Iraq War.

She loves riding her hand-crank bicycle for maintaining a healthy lifestyle. Tuesday's meeting were backed with lots of information to bring back to our communities and information to pass on to our state representatives. Some of the Keynote speakers were Congressman Earl Blumenauer from OR. He is a cyclist and been a strong advocate for cycling for many years and a congressman for 16 years. Indianapolis Mayor Greg Ballard spoke about building bike lanes and what an important part this is to help retain and attract businesses, and young professional people that will stay in the communities around Indianapolis. We learned about social media and who is using what to spread the word about what's going on in our communities. Then we met in our state group of advocates and laid out a plan for all our meetings with Senate staff members, and our meetings with members of the congress on Capitol Hill. With the loom of a major snow storm we prepared a back-up plan too.

Wednesday morning we split ranks and headed to the Capitol many of our appointments had been moved up and rearranged due to the looming snow storm. We had three things to ask for all of the Senators, Representatives, and their staff. 1. To sign the Dear Colleague letter drafted by Congressman Blumenauer to Sect. of Transportation Ray LaHood to include in the Safety and Performance Measures in MAP21 bicyclist and pedestrian deaths.

2. To ask them to join the Bicycle Caucus.

3. To attend a local bicycle event.

I gave Congressman Bucshon three events to choose from. I hope to see him at the Great Pumpkin Metric. I'll keep you posted. I went to 4 meetings that day. We walked the tunnels and hallways of the Cannon House, Longworth House, Rayburn House, and Russell Senate Office buildings.

I was with a group that visited Luke Messer from the 6th district, Todd Rokita from the 4th district and Larry Bucshon from our district the 8th. Their staff met with us and discussed the above mentioned issues and we were delighted that all three of these congressmen took time from their busy schedules to meet with us.

The consensus was the budget was so tight and there was no monies to be given for "bicycle lanes, pathways, and trails" in the transportation bill. That it was up to the state and local governments to initiate any new projects. This is why we must become active in our communities.

Respectfully submitted, Darlene Wefel

WELCOMING THE 14TH ANNUAL BIKE SUMMIT

Mr. BLUMENAUER. Mr. Speaker, as we wait for the Congress and administration to deal with how to do business different for defense, for health care, for the tax code, we can take a break today as we welcome over 750 men and women from every State in the Union who are here for the 14th Annual Bike Summit. They represent, as you might expect, people from cycling clubs and the mountain bike industry. There are also dedicated recreational cyclists, those who are involved with bike tourism, which has become very big business, by the way. And speaking of business there are representatives of bicycle repair, bicycle manufacturers, and others who design, manufacture, and sell equipment and apparel. Bicycles mean business: in my hometown alone, over $150 million of economic activity in a year, employing over 1,000 people.

As the Bike Summit attendees visit Capitol Hill later this week, we will have an opportunity to hear from people of all ages, all walks of life, communities large and small. They are firm in the belief that the Federal Government should be a stronger partner in capitalizing on the most efficient form of urban transportation ever designed.

Bicycles burn calories, not fossil fuel, and take up a 10th of the space of a car. More importantly, for those who drive, every bicycle in the protected bike lane next to you is not a car in front of you or a competing for a scarce parking space.

The goal here is to give Americans more choices about how they move, making it safe for children to walk or bike to school. It helps those children, it relieves stress on the family, and can cut 30 percent of the rush-hour congestion. Bicycling helps kids stay active at a time where we are obsessing about a lack of physical activity for our children, a level that is already too low and declining. Bicycling is a natural remedy.

Cities of all sizes are participating in the bicycle revolution. It would not be nearly as advanced as it is, but for $8.9 billion of Federal investment since the original ISTEA reauthorization. It has accelerated programs, leveraged other investments and has increased transportation capacity for everybody, and done so more cost effectively than any other expenditure. By the way, $1 million invested in bicycle facilities creates more family-wage jobs than simply constructing more miles of highway.

It is also easier and faster to accomplish. At a time when America has an infrastructure deficit that is in the trillions of dollars, when that infrastructure is falling apart and unreliable, our coalition for policies and resources to rebuild and renew America will be stronger if it includes the millions of Americans who travel by bike.

I strongly urge my colleagues and their staffs to take the time to visit with these advocates this week. Hear their stories about transforming communities of all sizes: rural, urban, suburban. Most important, learn how they are giving families safe transportation choices that they never had before. Visit with these cycling leaders. More important, at home, when you are back, get on a bike, walk a trail, join the volunteers, witness an event with your family and talk to the bike businesses and community partners. All of these stakeholders can help us visualize what the Federal partnership could mean in making communities across America more livable and our families safer, healthier, and more economically secure.
