BICYCLE FRIENDLY INDIANA:

Look for Paul Jensen's President's Letter next month

Progress Report

Each year the League of American Bicyclists assesses and ranks each state, based on five categories, as to their bicycle friendliness. This ranking is based on numerous factors, including a highly detailed questionnaire completed by a state employee. In Indiana, the questionnaire is completed by INDOT's Bicycle-Pedestrian Coordinator. While many of Indiana's communities, businesses and universities are showing their bicycle-friendly prowess, unfortunately, the state appears to have none.

In 2011, Indiana was ranked 19. In 2012 Indiana was ranked # 30. In 2013 Indiana's ranking as a Bicycle-Friendly State has fallen to # 42 and many people want to know why. One possible interpretation is that by keeping the status quo and doing only what some may consider basic requirements is not enough. While Indiana seems to be standing still, many other states are making positive gains. Indiana must be proactive if we expect the trend to change. Washington State took the number one spot in 2013 – the most Bicycle Friendly State. Yes, that would be our liberal friends out west. As Hoosiers, we often don't like the comparison, or at least think the comparison is not just. By that reasoning, we should compare Indiana with other Midwestern states like Illinois, Ohio, Michigan, and Kentucky. Here's how they ranked:

#9 Illinois #12 Michigan #32 Ohio #47 Kentucky

Thank goodness we were at least ranked higher than our neighbors to the south, but not by much! If so many other comparable states are ranked so much better than Indiana, what do we need to do to improve our ranking? According to the report card provided by LAB, they recommend the following:

- 1. Adopt a statewide safe passing law with a minmum distance of 3 feet to address bicycle safety
- 2. Adopt a vulnerable roadway user law that increases penalties for a motorist that injures or kills a bicyclist or a pedestrian
- 3. Adopt a statewide, all ages cell phone ban to combat distracted driving

- 4. Adopt performance measures...to better track and support Complete Streets/Bike Accommodation Policy compliance
- 5. Adopt a state bicycle design manual
- 6. Adopt a federal funding project rating criteria that incentivize bicycle projects and accommodations
- Dedicate state funding for bicycle projects and programs
- 8. Conduct a share the road campaign
- 9. Adopt performance measures to decrease bicycle fatalities
- 10. Adopt a mode share goal for biking

The report card also defines the Top 10 (nice that they would use a term coined by a Hoosier), signs of success and Indiana's performance toward those success measures:

Active State Advocacy Group

State Bicycle Plan (adopted 2003 or later)

Bicycle Education for Police

Bicycle Safety Emphasis in Strategic Highway Safety Plan

People Commuting By Bike (more than 10%)

Safe Passing/Vulnerable Roadway User Law

Complete Streets Policy

Dedicated State Funding

Top 10 State for Congestion and Mitigation and Air Quality Spending

Share The Road Campaign

BICYCLE FRIENDLY INDIANA:

Progress Report

Indiana's category scores for 2013 are:

Category	score (5-high, 1-lov
Enforcement & Legislation	2
Policies & Programs	2
Infrastructure & Funding	1
Education & Encouragement	2
Evaluation & Planning	2

Some wonder why it matters. Why would Indiana want to be a bicycle friendly state? Who cares?

It's obvious that Bicycle Indiana cares, but communities, employers, and residents should also care. "New business and residents aren't just looking at tax rates and school districts anymore; they want to settle in a state with rich outdoor opportunities and safe transportation options for their entire familyor workforce." Businesses and the tourism industry also benefit from a state and community being bicycle friendly

."Bicycle tourism can be a major driver of economic development, and corporations can capitalize on reduced health-care costs. By making streets comfortable and accessible for cyclists, bicycle friendly states increase safety of all road users and give residents transportation choices that save money and improve health.

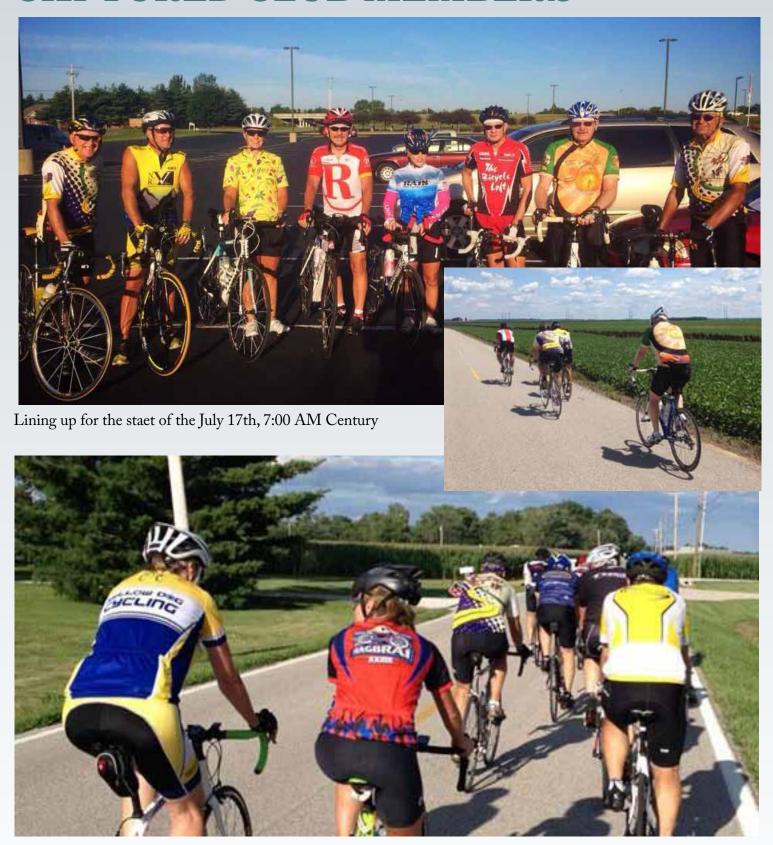

"Copied from the League of American Bicyclists Building a Bicycle FriendlyAmerica brochure.

The bottom line: If we want to stay in the bottom of the rankings, we can just stay the course. If wewant to improve Indiana's ranking, we need significant changes.

"If you always do what you've always done, you'll always get what you've always got."
—Henry Ford
